Dear members of ISCO3.

Although I suggested comments and ideas for improving the document, I showed my concerns about the manuscript.

I agree with the Legal Advisor, Roberto Quintero. I would like to highlight two of its last comments:

- “It is neither prudent nor advisable for ISCO3 to publish an official document specifically dedicated to cancer, due to the negative administrative/judicial consequences that would arise against ozone therapists...” potentially ISCO3 included.
- “It is not an opportune moment for the publication of the paper”.

However, I expect we have not to wait many years more to do it.

Best regards

Bernardino

Dear Roberto,

Thank you for your email outlining your legal opinion on ozone in Oncology. All of us would like to see a better way forward for ozone treatment out in the world where it is much needed. Under the circumstances I do agree with your opinion. I appreciate what Adriana has been through (as well as you) and I believe the people have a strong demand for its use and will continue to seek it out. Oncology is an edifice uncompromising in suppressing challenges to its monopoly. People seek it out though, this won't stop so we work in the clinics to relieve suffering every day. I took 3 months off to research and write that draft which helped me immensely to overcome the sorrow felt from witnessing the passing of several beloved people close to us. We know we don't have a cure (even though some patients do pull through and survive), we do believe Ozone is one of the best therapies out there. We know we help immensely to ease suffering.

Best regards,
Wayne McCarthy

I agree with you, one must keep a low profile.

Greetings to all

I agree with the point of view of Dr. Adriana and Dr. Bernardino Calvo. In the treatment of cancer, therapeutic proposals must be based on evidence, even though in practice many integrative therapies have some utility. I support and agree with the decision NOT to sign the SOP. I appreciate the effort made by Dr. Wayne, his work is interesting.
Sincerely,

Jaime Cachay MD

Dear Adriana and ISCO3 Members,

I completely agree with your very considered approach and nuanced strategy for moving forward. I understand that the SOP Ozone in Oncology will be lodged in the members section of the ISCO3 website for private access only for our members. That feels really good to me.

Deep appreciation to you as you weathered the storm and never gave up your principals.

We move forward together in strength.
